DAVID DAUBE BIBLIOGRAPHY

This bibliography lists the books, articles and papers of David Daube, a very prolific scholar whose publications span almost seventy years and whose areas of expertise ranged from Biblical Law, Roman Law, Rabbinic Judaism and the New Testament, Talmudic and Jewish Law, on down to contemporary topics and literary criticism, to mention only his main areas of interest. His publishers include the very most prestigious academic houses as well as the most incredibly obscure, in Europe, Africa, North and South America. Few scholars of his breed remain in today's specialized academic world. As this bibliography readily demonstrates, David Daube was a cosmopolitan world citizen.

This register is divided into two parts. In the first, all entries, complete with publication information, are listed chronologically and numbered sequentially. Daube's consistency is evident. He published something almost every year from 1932 to 2000. In cases where an article has appeared more than once, often under a different title or in a revised form, each item is listed as a separate publication. Indications are given to show where these related publications have appeared, whether as chapters in books or pages in volumes in which these works have been collected. The following abbreviations are used for these main collections: CSRL for Collected Studies in Roman Law; CWDD for Collected Works of David Daube; NTRJ for The New Testament and Rabbinic Judaism; and SBL for Studies in Biblical Law. Volumes 1 and 2 of CWDD have already been published; volumes 3 and 4 are projected.

In the second part, all titles are listed alphabetically. The number appearing after each title in braces allows readers to locate titles that appear in chronological sequence in part one of the bibliography. In addition, cross reference numbers with a \approx symbol are provided to identify other titles that are closely related to the relevant entries, either as reprints or revisions.

This project would not have been possible without the assistance of several people. In particular, Douglas H. Parker was led by his friendship with David Daube to create a large collection of his writings in the Howard W. Hunter Law Library at Brigham Young University, and Calum M. Carmichael is engaged in the on-going work of producing the Collected Works of David Daube. Macene Mason, legal secretary at the J. Reuben Clark Law School at Brigham Young University, and others assisted in tabulating, consolidating, and checking the data and word processing documents behind this bibliography; and Robert E. M. Spencer, Production Editor at BYU Studies, designed and laid out these pages.

Annotations are available in volumes one and two of the Collected Works of David Daube for all of the items published so far in that series. Annotations for the remaining items will similarly appear in the subsequent forthcoming volumes in that collection.

This bibliography was prepared for the session of the Biblical Law Section of the Society for Biblical Literature in Denver, Colorado, November 19, 2001, honoring the lifetime contribution of David Daube to the field of Biblical Law, to which he made a singularly significant formative contribution. Although no bibliography is ever perfect or complete, it is hoped that these pages represent a useful token of sincere gratitude to and for David Daube and his many contributions to a world of scholarship.
